In a surprise that many saw coming, especially with the influx of galleries opening Los Angeles outposts, Perrotin, the famed Paris-based gallery with spaces throughout Asia and NYC, is headed to the Southland. And to kick off the space, they have brought the legendary TWIST, aka Barry McGee, to be the first installation. Earthworm is on view now, and the from the looks of it, the space will be quite a great look for the Perrotin brand.
